SLOW DELIVERY OF MATERIAL HOLDING UP ACTIVE PAVING

Only Thirteen Carloads of Rock Received by Contractor at Vernon Since Fifteenth of August Despite Agreement to Send Out Three Each Day-May Start Here January 1st.

The slow delivery of material to the contractor is responsible for the fact two blocks of proposed new street surface has been postponed until January

"We had a contract with the quarrymen," said R. H. Standifer, local superintendent for H. K. McCollum of Fort Worth, who is in charge of the work in Vernon, "under which they were to ship us three cars of rock a day, beginning with August 15. I have been receive material, and to date we have

SAYS EMBARGO ON RECEIVING COTTON IS BUT TEMPORARY

Secretary of Chamber of Commerce Has Promise From Compress Company That Trouble Will Be Remedied After Today -Congestion Partly Due to Port Embargoes.

The temporary embargo on storage of cotton at the Interstate Compress is the predominant feature of the cotton situation in Vernon today. Secretary C. M. Murray of the Chamber of Commerce has been advised by N. B. Hodge, local manager of the Interstate Compress Company, that the difficulty will be removed after today. Scarcity of cars and difficulty in obtaining labor are given as reasons for the temporary

Mutual Versus Old Line Fire Insurance

The following is part of an address delivered by Hon, John S. Patterson, deceased Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of Texas, before the 46th Annual National Convention of Insurance Commissioners at Monterey, Calif., on September 23, 1915:

I have been asked to express my views concerning reciprocal, or inter-insurance. What I shall say will have no application whatever to those who are conducting an insurance business on this plan in an honest and honorable way, but it is my desire that the strictures and criticisms offered by me shall be applied with full force to the plan, the legislation permitting it and to those who have taken advantage of its defects to the detriment of

During 1914 the people of Texas were swindled out of not less than one million of dollars by so-called inter-insurance, to say nothing of the unpaid losses. There were forty-nine holding certificates from the Department when I came into office on January 23rd of this year; today there is not a certificate in force. Out of the above number there were some transacting an honest insurance business; others knew no limit to their rascality. Texas can point with pride to its cemetery of dead reciprocals, to say nothing of those in the hands of the undertaker, but neither my State nor yours can point with pride to any law that will bring these swindlers to justice. Those that are now languishing in our jails are there by indictment of a Federal grand jury for the use of the mails to defraud

In 1913 an act was passed in my State authorizing certifi cates to be issued by the Department to the attorney upon an application similar to the one prescribed in the standard reciprocal law. It contained but one regulatory provision, consisting of three lines and which empowered the Commissioner to revoke the certificate for "reasonable cause." Under this saving clause, I proceeded to apply, not a pruning knife, but a stump puller. In 1915 the Legislature attempted to repeal this law and substitute therefor the standard reciprocal law, which is practically the same as is found upon the statutes of Arkansas, California, Colorado, Idaho, Missouri, Maine, Minnesota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and perhaps other States. The Attorney General for our State has pronounced it unconstitutional and void, for the reason that "Insurance," the subject of legislation, is not expressed in the title to the act. In State ex rel. vs. Revelle, 165 S. W., 1084, the Supreme Court of Missouri made a similar ruling upon a similar title and, in addition, held the law unconstitutional on the ground of class legislation, in that it exempted reciprocals from all general laws regulating insurance. If it is not unconthereunder has yet to find its legal status in our jurisprudence and it should have the condemnation of this convention. The insuring public is mainly interested in three things, viz., solvent companies, reasonable rates and fair settlements, and it is our duty as Commissioners to advocate laws, rules and regulations that will produce these results. Before our Legislature, the good reciprocal took the position that as no complaint had been filed with the Department against it regulatory laws were unnecessary. The good man could argue with like reason in favor of repealing the law against murder. We need laws that will compel obedience, honesty, justice and fair dealing with our fellow man. Solvency.

Does this law compel a standard of solvency commensurate with the needs of a general insurer? Let us give its provisions a critical examination:

It is essentially a one-man insurance association. The law requires an attorney in fact, but not a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer or board of advisers. The attorney in fact may, and sometimes does, create these offices, but the law does not compel it. The attorney may, and sometimes does, execute a bond, but the law does not compel it. The attorney may be competent, honest and solvent; or he may be incompetent, venal and insolvent. The law requires no qualifications and imposes no limitations. Anyone who will make the prescribed affidavit may at once become the root, trunk and branch of a great reciprocal association.

This remarkable act of legislation requires that this one man association must begin with not less than one hundred separate risks, aggregating not less than $1,500,000 insurance in force. If the policies were equally prorated, each would be written in the sum of $15,000, which is quite a large risk for this young giant association to assume, but the law imposes no limit and it may assume a net line of $100,000, or any other sum, on any one risk. The Legislature of my State has been more solicitious in regard to incorporated companies and prohibits them from exposing themselves on any one risk to more than 10 per cent of their paid-up capital. In other words, an incorporated company with paid-up capital of $1,500,000 cannot expose itself on any one risk in excess of $15,000, while the young reciprocal with a $25,000 affidavit may play the game as high as an eagle's nest. The standard act in many of the States as a condition precedent to the issuance of a certificate, requires the attorney to make an affidavit that "there is on deposit with such attorney and available for the payment of losses a sum of not less than twenty-five thousand dollars;" in Texas the law requires a deposit of not less than $10,000 in some State or national bank, and in some of the States no deposit of any sum whatever is required. The term "on deposit with the attorney" opens wide the gate for fraud and perjury without a chance for detection. With the money on deposit in-his pocket, the attorney, with perfect safety, may defy the courts, both civil and eriminal.

Your respectfully,

F. E. Murchison, R. B. Sherrill, E. L. Witty, L. D. Terrell, McCurdy & Haney, C. S. McColloch.

THE NEED OF EVANGELISM.

America is referred to as a Christian nation. We are coming to the close of a year filled with many blessings. Have we not just cause for gratefulness? When the Beneficient Author of All Good has seen fit to shower upon our nation such blessings as this year has brought, the season takes a new meaning—sweeter, fuller than ever before—filling us with a glow of gratitude such as no other Thangsgivings have ever done.

We are thankful for twelve months of peace, and contentment; for a harvest unsurpassed in our country; for the triumphant return of our gallant army; for the brain and brawn and sinew of American manhood dedicated to the work of Reconstruction.

And this bank is thankful, too, for the confidence, friendship and co-operation of the men and women of this community. May the good things that the year has brought to each and every one fill us with a new determination to work and to strive with a freshness of spirit and hearts killed with the desire to serve for the good of our people, our town, our community.

to HARLINGEN, TEXAS, Dec. 1, 1919

Do you want to purchase land?

Have you some money with which to buy?

Can you buy on your own judgement?

If you can answer YES to the above three questions you are INVITED to join this party of land buyers and spend the week with us looking over and investigating the beautiful Lower Rio Grande Valley, Harlingen, Texas.

We will spend one day in Historic San Antonio, visiting the Alamo, Mission Concepcion, the Hot Wells, beautiful Brackenridge Park, Fort Sam Houston, the Zoo, and other places of interest.

From Harlingen we will make side trips to San Benito, Mercedes, Donna, McAllen, Mission and intermediate points.

The fields are green with Winter Vegetables; the Orange, Grapefruit and Lemon trees are loaded with luscious, beautiful golden fruit; the various flowers, Roses and Oleanders are in bloom.

You will really enjoy the trip on this Special Train of Pullman Cars with the stop-overs and side-trips and I believe you will like the Valley so well you will buy some land as an investment or a home.

Only $25.00 pays all your expenses for the entire trip to Harlingen and return to Vernon, and you sure cannot afford to miss it. Are you going with

Please be sure to make your reservations and sign your applications not later than Friday morning this week.

CHARTERS - SPECIAL - TRAIN

to HARLINGEN, TEXAS, Dec. 1, 1919

Do you want to purchase land?

Have you some money with which to buy?

Can you buy on your own judgement?

If you can answer YES to the above three questions you are INVITED to join this party of land buyers and spend the week with us looking over and investigating the beautiful Lower Rio Grande Valley, Harlingen, Texas.

We will spend one day in Historic San Antonio, visiting the Alamo, Mission Concepcion, the Hot Wells, beautiful Brackenridge Park, Fort Sam Houston, the Zoo, and other places of interest.

From Harlingen we will make side trips to San Benito, Mercedes, Donna, McAllen, Mission and intermediate points.

The fields are green with Winter Vegetables; the Orange, Grapefruit and Lemon trees are loaded with luscious, beautiful golden fruit; the various flowers, Roses and Oleanders are in bloom.

You will really enjoy the trip on this Special Train of Pullman Cars with the stop-overs and side-trips and I believe you will like the Valley so well you will buy some land as an investment or a home.

Only $25.00 pays all your expenses for the entire trip to Harlingen and return to Vernon, and you sure cannot afford to miss it. Are you going with

Please be sure to make your reservations and sign your applications not later than Friday morning this week.

We will be delighted to have you visit our display of Texas grown Oranges, Lemons and Grapefruit in the office at Vernon when in the city...Come in and let's get acquainted.

Thanksgiving will be observed by us, as it will most surely be observed by every one who reads these lines, as a day of rejoicing as well as one of gratitude for the great number as well as the greatest blessings which our good land has ever enjoyed in all its glorious history. Some among us will be saddened by the knowledge of missing ones - but they as well will join with us in thankfulness for the newer and broaded peace in which America has been so instrumental in accomplishing. We take this opportunity of expressing our sincere appreciation for your patronage and loyal support which has been instrumental in making this one of the most prosperous years in the history of our business. We hope we have merited your confidence and co-operation.

We rejoice with our friends and customers over the bountiful harvests and general prosperity that has come to Wilbarger County and surrounding country during this year.

Gapes is caused by a little worm which attaches itself to the inside of the windpipe, where it multiplies and ultimately obstructs the passage so that breathing is made difficult and ultimately prohibited to the extent that the bird chokes and dies. The female worm, while residing in the windpipe of the fowl, produces many eggs which are distributed widely as the chicks sneeze, or are swallowed and scattered about through the intestinal tract. The young worms which hatch birds legs with soap and warm water from these eggs live in the earth for a to remove the loose scales, and then rub long time and ultimately are picked up and swallowed by young chicks, thereby completing the cycle of the disease. This explains how infection is carried over from one year to another and why it is important that the same ground should not be used year after year for chicken raising operations.

Keep Hens on Clean Soll.

Of course, the best control is to keep the chicks on fresh clean soil at all times. scalding or burning. Roup is the hay fever ailment of poultry, as it induces profuse watery discharges from the eyes and nostrils, which ultimately interfere with the bird's breathing. Eyelids so swollen that they stick together and loss of appetite are also evidences of this complaint. The ailment is very contagious and is distributed by the saliva discharge from the mouth and nostrils, being scattered broadcast when poultry feeding utensils are used community fashion. Prevention consists in keep ing the house clean, well ventilated and disinfected, while the fowls should not be exposed to droughts which induce colds. Purchased birds should be isolated for two or three weeks and watched closely for signs of this disease before being liberated in the general

Quarantine Sick Birds.

If roup enters the flock, isolate sick birds in warm dry places where there is plenty of fresh air and no draugths. Wash the eyes and mouth of each bird with warm salt water and massage the nostrils and the eyelids in order to lessen the watery discharge accumulated there. Then wash or dip the bird's head in a solution composed of two heaping teaspoons of boracic acid or a half teaspoon of permanganate of potash in one pint of water, repeating this treatment two or three times daily. A tablespoon of peroxide of hydrogen, mixed with two tablespoons of water, and injected into the bird's nostrils with a small oil can or medicine dropper, is very beneficial. Thereafter, grease the fowl's head with camphorated oil or carbolated vasoline. Keep a small quantity of permangamate of potash in the drinking water so as to prevent spread of roup. In severe cases it is best to kill the birds at once, as seldom, if ever, can the disease be fully and permanently cured.

Chicken pox, or "sore head," another contagious poultry disease, is characterized by white festers which develop into brown spots or crusts on the comb, eyelids, and upon the beak and

To make the Maxwell light they used the quality steels

THE story of Maxwell is a story of metallurgy. This great science makes possible a 1960-lb., 109-inch wheelbase, 25 h.p. car, whose common denominator is Quality.

It has made possible a vehicle weighing but 1960 pounds itself to carry 750 to 1000 pounds of human weight a distance of 100,000 miles or more-to carry it at low cost and to carry its 5 passengers in comfort.

This is about 2 to $2\frac{1}{4}$ pounds of vehicle weight for a pound of "human freight."

When you stop to compare weight for weight with other cars, and size for size you will quickly realize that the Post-War Maxwell takes a leading rank on the subject of light weight.

PURE BRED CATTLE ONLY SORT WHICH WIN ENTHUSIASM

America Should Earn Reputaard Dairy Animals, Say Department of Agriculture Experts in Discussing Future of Farmers on Small Basis.

Time was-and not so long agoford to breed purebred animals.

The time has come-just now, perhaps-when the small farmer can hardly afford not to breed purebred anibred sires.

That is particularly true if his line to the study of dairy farming.

Now, the whole situation is changed, or kind. is rapidly changing. The small farmer does not stand alone, and he has all kinds of aids. There, to start with, is on the problems of the small farmer. Your picture of England is likely to be one of purebred J. W. Magness, 2 miles east, was in Herefords or Shorthorns. And you town Saturday. have a sort of feeling of reverence to ward them.

Do you think of America, from a live stock standpoint, in that way? Of course not. You think of it as a meatproducing country, a range country, a grade cattle country.

Both estimates are, in a manner, correct. But, to the individual farmer on the Island of Jersey or in the whiteface country of England or the blackcattle country of Scotland, the matter of having lifs animals purebred is simply a matter of doing what everybody else is doing. It is easier-or, to say the least, just as easy-to do it as not to do it. Until just now, that condition never existed in the United States; it does exist now. Communities have organized and are organizing still more closely. Breeding associations are being formed with secretaries who can give help in keeping the records of all animals straight, one of the things with which the small farmer operating alone has greatest difficulty When a community organizes and starts raising purebred stock of any kind, it brings a market for that kind of stock to the door of every farmer in the community. The man who, operating alone, could not have sold a purebred animal for a dollar more than he could have got for a good grade animal can get the worth of every animal he raises under the community system.

Opportunity Is Here.

America has the opportunity just now to develop as a great breeding institution. South America wants purebred "stuff." As an indication of how active the want is, Argentina recently appropriated $100,000 to encourage the importation of purebreds. If the United States gets any considerable portion of the business in South America, Department experts say, it must be because American animals compete successfully on final test with animals from anywhere else in the world. They see no trouble in doing that, with dairy cattle, where production is the test. The thing to be done is to give the South Americans what they want in dairy

There is likely, also, to be a pretty big market in France for American purebred dairy cows. The problem of supplying that demand is somewhat different from the South American problem. France wants a general-purpose cow, while the United States is the home of the specialized cow. The thing that has to be done in that case is to give France the specialized dairy cow that most nearly meets the requirements, with the hope that when her production records show up they will be so good that other Frenchmen will want other cows like her.
